THAYER'S PATENT BRIDGE.

NEW and valuable trestle Bridge has been patented by Mr. G. W. Thayer, of Massachusetts, which will be found to be an important invention. The amount of strength attained by the structure is spoken of as being wonderful.—
The inventor feels confident that no weight which could be placed upon it, could break it down. This consideration, taken together with the economy with which it may be built, will render it worthy the attention of all who are interested in the subject. This bridge is adapted peculiarly to Railroads as well as county roads, as it can be made of any required span, so as not to obstruct the navigation of streams when rafts or boats might be desired to pass, and can also be built at a very moderate expense. be built at a very moderate expense.

A The subscriber offers for sale his Mallory Lands, situated at the junction of the Brunswick River with the Cape Fear. There are about 700 acres tide swamp, and judging from the productiveness of lands adjoining, are equal to any lands below the Northwest. It is well located, being at the right pitch both of tides and freshets.

There are 40 or 50 Acres which have been cleared, and with moderate work as he assily replained. There are 40 or 50 Acres which have been cleared, and with moderate work can be easily reclaimed.

Attached is a first rate mill seat, surpassed by few in the country for a plentiful supply of water; on which is already a dam sufficient, with the exception of a small break in it, which can be easily repaired. It is well located for a saw and grist mill, and thrashing machine. To a person who has got force, there is as great an opening to embark in rice planting as can be found in this section of country—for it is about the largest body of lands that can be found in one body. There are about 12 or 1500 acres of Pine Land attached to it, which have been boxed for Turpentine, and have been cultivated for 2 or 3 years. A bargain may be had in said lands. From the distinguished Professor of Chemistry and Materia Medica, Bowdoin College.

Dear Sir: I delayed answering the receipts of your preparation, until I had an opportunity of witnessing its effects in my own family, or in the families of my friends.

This I have now done with a high degree of satisfaction, in cases both of adults and children.

I have found it, as its ingredients show, a powerful remedy for colds, and coughs, and pulmonary diseases.

Read the following, and see if this medicine is worth a trial. This patient had become very feeble, and the effect of the medicine was unmistakably distinct:—

Dr. J. C. Ayer,—Sir: I have been afflicted with a painful affection of the langs, and all the symptoms of settled consumption, for more than a year. I could find no medicine that would reach my case, until I commenced the use of your "Cherry Pectoral," which gave me gradual relief, and I have been steadily gaining my strength till my health is well nigh restored.

How lapse our years away! how fade
The raptures of the mind;
Onward we pass to storm and shade,
And leave blue skies behind:
Like yellow leaves, around us fall
The friends best loved and known;

Still more alone! blithe Spring comes round:
Rich Summer circles by;
And Autumn paints with gold the ground,
Till Winter's storm-blasts fly.
One after one, friends drop away,
As year on year rolls on;
And month by month, and day by day;
The old are more alone.

Still more alone! alas! tis vain New hopes, new hearts to find; New hopes, new hearts to ma;
What magic can restore again
Youth's brightly vision'd mind?
Age walks amid an alter'd world,
'Mid bustling crowds unknown;
New scenes hath novelty unfurl'd,

sert from this sacred chair, that such an indulcence is always attended with danger. No one is born a drunkence. 'Let him that standeth take care lest he fall' I have invited maxy to take the temperance pledge, and their reply was, I have no occasion, I am sober enough, and no drunkard; ah, these words, 'I have no occasion,' have brought many to a miserable end -- the greatest drunkard that ever lived might once say the same. Men have been reduced to the lowest state of debasement, and have reduced their wives and children to misery unutterable, who were once as temperate as any one here, and might a'so declare, 'I am sober enough." Father M. concluded by alluding to his visit to the Tombs, and evhorted his hearers to enroll themselves upon the sale side. The pledge was then administered to a large number of applicants. A Chance for the Dog Speculators.

A friend of ours, who has just returned from the prairies west of Missouri, informs us that the Indians are be-gining to complain of the scarcity of what is with them a very essential article of food, viz: dogs! There is no such thing among the savages as a feast, or a genteel, upper-ten dinner, or quiet, cosy social party or family re-union, or 12 o'clock lunch, unless a dog fricasseee, or puppy cutlets, or canine roast, be among the dishes. A Pawnee "Sam Weller" would scorn an invitation, from his brothers of the broom and cockade, to pass an agreeable evening with them, unless the " swarry with trimmins " came on the table "at sharp seven," not in the shape of a "bo led leg of mutton," but a " barbecued terrier."

It appears that the Indian gourmets and gourmands have been having an easy time of it lately; the war tomahawk was buried; the corn harvest was abundant; have gone to the dogs; copper colored gourmets begin for Plantation purposes.

He takes this method of returning his thanks for the very liberal share of patronage already bestowed on him, and hopes to merit and receive it in future.

Any article sold and Warranted, that does not turn out as recommended, will be taken back and the money refunded. and to ship them off to the Western prairies We have seen the trouble and expense to which our municipal governments have frequently been put in order to get rid of the surp'us canine population which now and then overflows our city. Poisoned sausages are useful, but they are dangerous; besides, they cost the tax-payers money. We are continually inflicted with cargoes of enfeebled poultry and antique eggs from the upper country; here is an opportunity for a signal revenge. Let some patriotic individual rid us of the puppies that swarm around the city precincts, ship them up the river, and reap a profitable return from the appetites of Indian braves and petits-maitres. We claim nothing, no reward or title for the idea; but we trust for humanity's sake that it will be carried into effect. "Lo, the poor Indian," &c.—N. O. Picayme.

Retrospective.

As the mail resolutely refuses to arrive, and as nobody will consent to do anything very eccentric or remarkable at the present time, we feel rather thrown back upon the past week, which has in some measure deserved the title of election week, since during the whole of it we have been in the receipt of news from the elections in differ at States, including Mississippi. Louisiana, Maryland, New York, N. Jersey. Wisconsin, and we think another State or two. In all these States, with the exception of Wisconsin. the democrats have either achieved victories, or made large gains. Maryland, New Jersey and Loupenderance in that State, is equivalent to a democratic victory.

It may sound like rather a bold proposition, jure the person striven to be benefitted. but we have witnessed the fulfilment of much bolder and apparently more unlikely ones, and we believe that we are not now mistaken.

The unpleasant feelings which seem to have been gaining ground towards Kossuth, appear to have been very much dissipated by the arrival of himself in England, and of the Mississippi at New York .-The officers of the steamship emphatically deny the occurrence of any difficulties between them and Kossuth, and the extremely moderate course adopted by that individual since his arrival in England, go to disprove the charges of Red Republicanism and Demagogueism brought against him. We agree in one thing with the London Times, Kossuth is a man of words rather than of actions. No great leader who ever freed a people, talked as much as Kossuth ted, he would receive from them but a lukewarm does. He is too much of the poet and the orator to be the warrior or the statesman.

That the growing of wool would be a profitable business in some portions of our State, we have not the least doubt. Our native stock of sheep are well adapted to the climate, and, neglected as they generally are, yield a fair fleece from two to five pounds. But our native stock may be improved upon by the introduction of new and improved breeds. The most experienced sheep raisers in our country are of opinion that neither the quantity nor quality of the fleece will deteriorate in our climate.

FAST SAILING. - Longer memories, we suspect, might silence some of the current boasting about the matchless sailing of the clipper fleet. There are plenty of some forty years ago, before the neccessity for large cargoes led to the alteration of models. > The Potato Rot. Mr. Ruben M Gibbs, a Connecticut farmer residing June, discovered a flat bug depositing its eggs on the vines and leaves of the potato plant from which minute worms were subsequently hatched in large numbers. These worms have since eaten their way into the centre of the stalks, concealing their place of entrance under the joints and leaves, and then following have eaten out the pith of the vines, in some instances for several inches, though in appearance externally sound. These vines it is expected will early decay Indeed, Mr. G. last year discovered the pathway of these larvæ in blighted vines, which led to his observation this season. It remains to be determined by further observation, whether the potatoes grown on the perforated vines will manifest the "rot." There a probability that they will and the subject is worthy the attention of farmers generally. The observafact, that instead of certain mysterious chemical agencies and electrical influences of a noxious character producing this disease, the true cause of the mischief is the depredations of irsects, whose habits and character have not yet been sufficiently studied.—Oronda-

Didn't Want to see the Mammoth Cave.

The following extract from Lady Emeline Stuart Wortley's recent work on the United States, gives an Wortley's recent work on the United States, gives an account of a character decidedly original:

"I must not forget to speak of a rather whimsical but thoroughly obliging, hospitable, and, I believe, excellent old gentleman, at whose hotel we were staying on our way to and from the Mammoth Cave. Singularly enough, he has lived for nearly half a century within a few miles of the cavern, but never has visited it. 'Time enough,' he growled in a voice that might have sounded from the subterranean depths of the cave itself, and would have rumbled at Echo River, like a discharge of satanic artillery.

"Time enough to go under ground when I'm dead;"
and we almost agreed with him, after we had all gone a-caving and come back feeling so subterra-neanically sepulchral, and with such a dreary ante-diluvian fossil-like sensation perfectly convinced of the hollowness of the world in general, and of Kenucky in particular. Indeed, we rather envied Mr. Bell his superficial views, and his never having been buried alive, or trodden under foot by half a quarter of the inhabitants of that State.
"One of his female slaves told me ladies return cometimes from their cave expedition half dead, and keen their beds for 'a many days,' and occasionaly have received severe injuries from stumbling on the rugged sharp-pointed rocks. This negress was one of the most good natured beings I ever met with; she voluntarily undertook the task of rubbing off from some of our clothes the dust of the cave; she scrubbed away with such zeal that soon her arms became a sort of faint cream color, and her thick crop of wool was so densely powdered as to assume the same tint, together with her smiling gentle face. She appeared to compassionate us profoundly; and perhaps imagining, in consequence of her master's pre-judice against that mighty cave, that no one of their own free will would visit such a dreadful place. (to come back in such a fearful plight) she appeared to entertain an opinion that travellers in general had o go through this ordeal; and peradventure, were thus natura ized and made children of the soil, after whole plains seemed to be covered with the moving carrying so much of it away about their persons and habliments. This claim would be well grounded at any rate.

New Livery Stables.—Fire_Proof.

HAVING completed my new Livery Stables, I am now ready to receive Horses at livery, by the day, week, or month.

My Stables are situated on the corner of Princess and Third My Stables are situated on the corner of Princess and Third Streets, directly opposite the Court-House, and very conveni-ent to the business part of the town. They are built of brick, and covered with tin, which makes them entirely FIRE-FROOF. They are large, commodious, and well constructed; and in ev-ery respect as comfortable and convenient as any Stables in the United States and comfortably.

I also have (for the accommodation of Drovers,) a large and comfortable Lot, together with a basement under the Stables sufficient to hold one hundred horses, and shelter them well and comfortably.

Horses, Carriages, and Buggies, kept constantly for hire

My Hostlers cannot be surpassed in any country, and lerefore feel confident of giving entire satisfaction to those who favor me with their custom.

I feel grateful to my friends and the public for their liberal patronage herctofore, and hope to merit a continuance of their custom.
